

SANDFORD AWARD

Lucy Hockley

Lucy is a museum manager with over 15 years of expertise in lifelong learning and interpretation, as well as experience in volunteer management and collections management. She has worked in independent, local authority and University museum settings. Prior to working in Museums, Lucy worked with young people in schools and other educational settings. She has been involved in establishing and supporting in international networks focussing on understanding the historic environment, also serving as a judge for the EU Prize for Cultural heritage/Europa Nostra Awards. She enjoys the creativity of the sector, the enthusiasm often demonstrated by younger visitors in museums and the unique learning environments museums offer. Lucy is an Associate of the Museums Association, a museum trustee and sector mentor.